Jameson Wolfgang Jackson	BR7330	Trigg	Murder w/ SC	LWOP + 32 years to life	February 2022	Delano	Found guilty by jury of the murder of a bystander who was standing nearby while a separate victim was trying to recover his stolen vehicle from Jackson. Jackson fired from the vehicle at the vehicle owner in an attempt to kill him, with the bullet grazing the vehicle owner but hitting the decedent standing in the background. Jackson had been previously convicted as a juvenile of being involved in the robbery and execution killing of a Brooktrails store owner.
Thomas Dean Jones		Eyster	Murder w/ SC	LWOP + 172 years to life	April 2022		Found guilty by jury of the shooting murder of his stepson and the shooting attempted murder of his stepson's husband. Believing the stepson was going to attempt to sell his ¼ interest in a family compound (in which the defendant had no financial interest), the defendant was lying in wait on the morning in question for the two men to come out of their home to go to work. He shot them both so that the stepson's ¼ interest would transfer by operation of law to the other three property owners, particularly the defendant's sister. At the time of trial, the defendant had six prior violent felony convictions for robberies committed in Lake and Sonoma counties.
