

What did you find most surprising about the results? What demands did you feel were most important?

9 Answers

Mentimeter

More resources are needed to increase the CARE and CAPS funding.

How 36% of students didn't know that Title IX was not a confidential resource. Increasing funding to CARE.

All the demands felt important. The most recent title 9 training I think did tell us that it wasn't confidential so I guess that one I think maybe should be a clearer demand.

I was surprised that there was no report back focusing specifically on trans respondents, and that trans men and women respondents were instead lumped together with cisgender respondents.

Most important demands to me are 1 and 1A, 2 and 2A, 4 and 4A, and 5

I hadn't considered that international students would be at a disadvantage when it came to the trainings and info. I really liked the first demand. Including a care advocate at meetings, simple but 👍

87009787

Increase funding for CARE and presence of CARE advocates at Title IX meetings

The amount of care advocates available in comparison to the Title IX officers was surprising to learn. I think future steps should focus on increasing Care funding.

1

9

To you, what do healing-centered resources look like?

6

Answers

 Mentimeter

Centering the client's wishes and experiences.

actively decenter white fragility and apologism

It would provide space for healing and support long-term.

How to feel safe again, gain community and cut down shame, sleep and nutrition and physical health plus mental health. Not feeling alone and being able to take breaks from vigilance actually know what us most marginalized means through action and policy, ex supporting disabled and intersex survivors w/ accessible resources w/o reifying sex/gender binaries

Survivor centered and trauma informed care that identifies how trauma impacts the process and provide support as needed

5

