ACHIEVEMENTS AND CHALLENGES

- Sandra Harding became the permanent Director of the Center retroactive to July 1, 1996, having served for 6 months as Interim Director, replacing Kathryn Norberg, History.

- Director Harding worked with the College Development Director, Meredith Goodwin, to increase CSW endowment funds. Through these and other efforts, 3 new student awards were endowed—2 graduate and 1 undergraduate: the George Eliot Dissertation Prize ($1,000) for the best dissertation focusing on gender criticism utilizing historical perspective in either literature or the arts; the Constance Collier Graduate Fellowship ($1,000) for a graduate student engaged in research on feminist and working-class issues with demonstrated excellence in teaching; the Constance Collier Undergraduate Prize ($500) for an undergraduate student who demonstrates an interest in working-class and feminist issues as well as activist practice for social change. (Note: This is the first undergraduate prize offered by the Center. There were 2 given this year. See Appendix G.) A first installment ($5,000) for a new Stone Award was added to the Stone endowment in June.

- Program attendance was good. There were 49 programs scheduled. Three speakers canceled, and two conferences were postponed, leaving a total of 44 programs that routinely attracted 20-40 graduate students and faculty, with an average attendance of 35 for all programs. Two programs drew 100 plus including the Graduate Conference with 250. Co-sponsors for these events included 18 campus units and 5 off-campus organizations. (See Appendix A for the Annual CSW Calendar of Events and the chart of CSW initiated and sponsored events.) The Center supported and co-sponsored an additional 21 programs together with 41 campus units and 8 organizations off-campus (Appendix B).

- A new extramural grant ($200,547 from the Russell Sage Foundation) was recruited from Patricia Greenfield, Psychology. The CSW managed a total of 8 grants—4 extramural and 4 intramural—for faculty from Psychology, Sociology, English, History, Law, Physics and Anthropology. New intramural funding totaled $35,155 (Appendix C).

- The Center moved in August 1996, a move that involved 9 offices. This move resulted in an overall enhancement of CSW space: virtually contiguous staff offices; a more inviting, spacious, front office; a much larger seminar/conference room, shared with the Women's Studies Program, which permits audiences of 50-75 people without incurring the expense of Faculty Center rooms.

- In September the CSW recruited Christina Crews to fill the Administrative Assistant II position vacated by Editha Tmbucon, who had been with the Center for 4 years. Christina has proven to be an exceptional hire, and the Center has benefited greatly from the skills and enthusiasm that she brings to the position.

- The Center continued to upgrade its computer systems, with help from GSR Jo Anne Beazley. We mounted a web site, created distribution lists for program series, and put the last 2 Feminist Research Seminar papers online for members to access by means of a password. The proposed move from Humnet to Life Science Computing in the summer of 1997 promises to be a beneficial one which will enable us to have access to additional software and server space for shared data and documents.

- The major challenge as the year ends is the reorganization of the administrative staff positions servicing both the CSW and the Women's Studies Programs. The current staff positions (CSW/3; WSP/2) will be analyzed and conceptualized according to function in order to better utilize individual strengths and serve unit needs. An additional half-time position will be added to financial management.

- In January 1998 the Center will undergo a 5 year review. Although preparation was begun in the spring, staff will continue to gather the necessary documentation across the summer.
• A continuing challenge is to match speakers to prospective audiences. A few events with first rate programs were underattended, and we are working on ways to build audiences for specific events, e.g., ask faculty to assist by building a CSW lecture into a graduate seminar, send out reminder notices (via email) to targeted audiences. A related issue is a recognition that the CSW Calendar of Events is fast becoming a "campus record" of feminist programs organized by other campus units. We will need to continue to monitor our cosponsorship of such events while insuring the ongoing high quality of programs the Center organizes—using both to serve diverse, existing CSW research/scholar groups.

UCLA FACULTY

• A total of 34 faculty representing 20 departments/schools served on CSW committees—20 faculty served on the CSW Advisory Committee and another 14 participated in various sub-committees (Appendix D). There were 26 paid faculty subscriptions to the Feminist Research Seminar, and the 5 seminars (6 were scheduled, but 1 presenter canceled) had an average faculty and graduate student attendance of 27. (This was a decrease over 1995-96 and could be attributed to several factors: increased fees; fewer disciplines represented by the presenters/discussants; the fact that graduate students, although their membership is subsidized, were asked to pick up the paper in the CSW office.)

• Over 600 faculty, mostly from UCLA, are on the Center's mailing list, and attended some or many of the 44 lectures, seminars, conferences and workshops sponsored by the Center during the year. Of the 600 faculty on the mailing list, 120 are considered "core", and another 150 are "involved."

• Seven faculty from 7 departments were PIs for intramural and extramural grants (8 grants) that the Center managed. Three faculty representing 3 departments submitted a total of 5 new grant proposals (Appendix C).

• Small grants totaling $5,900 were awarded to 4 faculty from 4 different departments (Appendix E). The Faculty Advisory Committee voted in the fall of 1996 to discontinue the minigrant competition, mainly due to budget cutbacks. In addition, there was discussion of the fact that the original purpose of the grants (to provide seed money for pilot projects which would result in extramural grants) was not being realized. No awards were made for 1997-98.

UCLA GRADUATE STUDENTS

• Three graduate students had research assistantships, funded through the Graduate Division. In addition, 4 were employed on CSW extramural grants (Appendix F). Thirty-two students received CSW awards: 28 travel grants (totaling $4,975 in specially solicited funds) were given to 26 students representing 11 different departments and schools to conduct or disseminate the results of their research; 1 student received the $3,000 Jean Stone Fellowship (endowed) for the excellence of her proposed research and 1 student received $1,000 for second place honors; 1 student received the $1,000 Wollstonecraft Prize (endowed) for an outstanding dissertation; 1 student received the new $1,000 Constance Coulier Fellowship; there were no submissions for the new George Eliot Prize (Appendix G).

• "Thinking Gender", The Seventh Annual Graduate Student Research Conference, was co-sponsored with USC for the fourth year and opened up to other campuses in the region for the third year. Featured were 85 graduate students. Of these 85 students, 40 were UCLA students, 27 were from USC, and 18 were students from regional campuses including UCSD, UCI, UCR, UCSB, and Claremont. Two UCLA students served on the planning committee, 20 faculty (10 from UCLA) chaired the 21 panels and 250 people attended the day-long event held at the UCLA Faculty Center (Appendix H).

• In 1996-97 there were 485 graduate students representing 44 departments/schools on the CSW mailing list, and all of the Center's programs were well attended by graduate students. The CSW subsidized graduate student membership in the Feminist Research Seminar (29 students "joined"), continued to offer specialized workshops, and provided the opportunity to serve on various committees. The decrease in FRS student members was likely due to the fact that students had to pick up the papers in the office rather than have them mailed. The new web access to FRS papers in 1997-98 will help to address this issue.
FACULTY AND GRADUATE STUDENTS FROM OTHER CAMPUSES

- In 1996-97 the CSW had 8 Visiting Scholars including 6 international scholars. Two were African scholars who were Rockefeller Fellows with the African Studies Center, and 3 others were from Hiroshima University, University of Melbourne and University of London. Also affiliated were 30 Research Scholars for whom the Center functioned as their home institution (Appendix I). In addition to local invited speakers, approximately 25 faculty from regional campuses participated in Center seminars and conferences, as did several faculty from other universities (national and international) who were visitors in other UCLA departments. Graduate students from other campuses also regularly attended CSW events.

- The Center worked with Professor Frances Olsen to host a group of East German feminist law students who were here on a study project from Humboldt University in Berlin.

- The Center worked closely with Professor Gail Kligman (Sociology) and Co-PI Susan Gal of the University of Chicago to organize a major international conference in conjunction with their project, Women, Gender and the Transition in Central and Eastern Europe (SOROS Foundation). The conference was held in the summer of 1996 just outside of Lucca, Italy, and brought together 20 feminist scholars from Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, the Czech Republic, Croatia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Germany, and the United States. A resulting volume will be published in 1998.

- The "Thinking Gender" conference involved both faculty and graduate students from USC in the planning committee, and the conference itself included 10 USC faculty who chaired sessions and 45 graduate students from 6 regional campuses who presented their research. Approximately 90 of the 250 attendees were from other campuses (Appendix II).

PERSONNEL

- CSW regularly employs 3 FTE staff (An Assistant to the Director, and Administrative Analyst and an Administrative Assistant II), plus the 33% FTE Director. Edeliza Tumbucon resigned in August 1996 and was replaced by Christina Crews in September 1996. In 1996-97, a total of 7 graduate students, 6 undergraduate students, and 1 general assistance personnel were also employed (Appendix F).

PUBLICATIONS

- Professor Gail Kligman (Sociology) and Professor Susan Gal (University of Chicago) are working on an edited volume resulting from their SOROS grant. Publication of the volume, provisionally entitled Women, Gender and the Transition in Central and Eastern Europe, originally scheduled for this year, is slated for 1998.

- The annual Calendar of Events became a tri-annual publication (fall, winter and spring). (See Appendix A.) Upon the recommendation of the Director, the Faculty Advisory Committee voted to discontinue the Newsletter due to budgetary concerns. No newsletters were published in 1996-97.

- Of the 30 Research Scholars affiliated with the CSW, 12 published books or articles in 1996-97. Additionally, Center activities help to shape scores of publications each year in more indirect ways. The research and scholarship of all the faculty, graduate students, and visitors who were involved in Center projects benefited from the interactions the Center made possible.

SPACE

- In 1996-97 the Center occupied the following space in Kinsey Hall: 288 A-C (main administrative office, Administrative Assistant II, work space for GSRs, office of Director and Assistant to the Director); 276 (Administrative Analyst); 355 (seminar/conference room), which is shared with Women's Studies.
